Moore, Clarksville,

Our offerings this week will be, we supose, between 500 and 600 hbds. The mar ket has been very active, at full prices for all grades, in spite of the excessive heat of the weather. The Louisville tobacco war rages more vehemently than ever, the las nove by the warehousemen being to pro hibit any one buying who does not belong to their trade organization; this excludes from the market a body of buyers who have peretofore bought 80 per cent, of the receipts of that market. This of course lets the few have their own way as to prices, and they are buying at prices below those bid by the independent buyers, which bids are refused Our warehousemen seem to desire to take no advantage of the troubles in the Louis WINDOW Chass, Paint, Gils and this market, though Louisville has her Varnishes at Warfield & Reynolds. agents all along the railroad to Clarksville, and sometimes in Clarksville itself. If such troubles existed here, Louisville runners would visit nearly every planter in
